

Honolulu Advertised By Local Gift to Boniface

James Woods

California's mighty timbers brush their crests against the sea.
More abundant and much higher than the trees of our Hawaii.
But good friends dwell in these islands as most any place they dwell.
So your friend Honolulu, cross the sea, can wish you well.
Since we're talking now of timber, there are many kinds of woods.
You have redwoods, we have koa, and some other brands of goods.
We have ho and algeroba and of sandal trees a few.
But I've never found better timber than the kind that fashions you.
Towering redwoods, sturdy pine trees, noble fir and spruce, palms
Add their splendor to the landscape and we pleasure in their charms.
But when it comes to a timber of a classy kind of goods,
Both for use and decoration, why, it's good old Jimmy Woods.
I am sending you a token case of koa, bowl of koa.
They are woods of choice selection in Hawaii where they grow.
And these woods shall bear my message to the Woods who is my friend.
Would that Woods would smiling welcome what in way of woods I send.

Aloha.

Chester A. Doyle.

Fas simile of engraved scroll panel accompanying Chester Doyle's gift to James Woods, manager of the Hotel St. Francis of San Francisco. The gift, a royal punch bowl, has been widely exhibited in the coast metropolis.

James Woods, manager of the Hotel St. Francis, in San Francisco, has always been a good friend of Hawaii. Whenever an opportunity presents itself, the genial manager has always told the tourists of the beauties of the Paradise of the Pacific.

At a recent meeting of the Honolulu Ad club, the members of the organization passed a resolution thanking Mr. Woods for his interest in Hawaii and the club also sent a present to remind the San Francisco booster that Hawaii appreciated his efforts to bring the islands before the tourists on the mainland.

Following the resolution by the Ad club, Chester Doyle decided that he would do his bit to remind James Woods of Hawaii. While in San Francisco Mr. Doyle had been royally entertained at the St. Francis and around the corridors of the hotel Honolulu is known as Doylestown. In an endeavor to pay his respects Mr. Doyle spent two months in finding a present which would be typically Hawaiian.

The present arrived in San Francisco a few weeks ago, and before long all San Francisco was hearing about the calabash or royal punch bowl. A large case was built for the calabash made from koa wood and the bowl was made of hundreds of years ago. Accompanying the bowl was a polished silver ladle, the handle wrought of quarters, the scoops of dollars and the inserts of dimes, all of the Hawaiian mintage of 1883.

The gift was formally presented to Mr. Woods at the meeting of the Tuesday club by C. G. Bockus of this city. The genial manager of the Hotel St. Francis was overwhelmed and could talk of nothing else for that day. The present was placed on exhibition and during the past few weeks has visited every prominent club in San Francisco, accompanied by a guard. "Of course I shall not soon forget this gift," said Mr. Woods. "I have always held a warm spot in Hawaii, and cannot begin to thank Chester Doyle enough for remembering that a gift, typical of Hawaii, would be wonderfully appreciated. If the present rate continues I imagine that everyone in San Francisco will see the gift before the year is over."

THINKS ANTHRAX SITUATION ON KAUAI IS STILL QUITE SERIOUS

An interesting report to the board of agriculture and forestry, made this week by Dr. Leonard N. Case, tells of the status of the anthrax situation which is now regarded as eliminated from the islands of Oahu and Maui though still serious on the island of Kauai. There have been no deaths from anthrax on Kauai since August 24, but this is regarded as due to highly successful vaccination rather than to a decrease of the original infection.

Regarding Oahu the report states that considering the prompt and very effective measures taken in the beginning it can be safely said that anthrax had been entirely eradicated. The amount of infection still remaining in the soil on Maui where the disease made its appearance is problematical but considering its early diagnosis and the fact that serum was at hand for immediate use, the prompt burning of all carcasses and the effective quarantine measures established, it is probably slight and the remaining restrictions now in force can soon be done away with.

"At Hanalei, Kauai," says the report, "we have a much more serious condition. Being the first place in which the disease broke out in this territory there was no serum and vaccine here with which to combat it. Due to the fact that quite a few animals died before any report was made of it and to the fact that nearly a hundred carcasses were buried before burning operations commenced the pasture lands became and are thoroughly saturated with the infection.

"Considering the character of the disease and the great resisting powers of the spore form of the infection to all disinfectants and the experiences gained in similar outbreaks in other countries, these lands must be looked upon as remaining dangerous for a considerable period of time.

"That there have been no certain deaths from anthrax reported from Kauai since August 24 points to a highly successful vaccination rather than to a decrease of the original infection. These lands still are and can be proven dangerous to the unprotected animal. Consequently no repeal of the quarantine restrictions now in force and which have proven so successful in keeping the disease from spreading from its original focus, can be advised."

GENERAL BIDDLE MADE ASSISTANT CHIEF OF STAFF

WASHINGTON, October 28.—Secretary Baker announced tonight the appointment of Major General John Biddle as assistant chief of staff, a post vacant since General Bliss succeeded Major General Scott as chief of staff. The appointment will greatly lighten the burden of General Eiler, who has been at his desk almost night and day since his promotion.

General Biddle has a reputation for executive ability earned largely as superintendent of the West Point Military Academy. As a colonel he organized and commanded one of the special engineer regiments which were among the first troops sent abroad to the war. He comes to his post in the department with personal knowledge of what is transpiring at the fighting front and also with a knowledge of general staff duty gained by a previous tour of duty with that corps.

Secretary Baker said the matter of naming a new chief of staff was not now under consideration.

Convicted of wife beating, Edward Stewart of Cumberland, Mr., was lashed twenty times and will spend a year in prison.

SENATOR THOMPSON TO TALK ON PROHIBITION

Senator W. H. Thompson of Garden City, Kansas, who speaks at Central Union church Sunday morning, at various times has had the distinction of winning out on a Democratic ticket in a strong Republican district, notably in 1905 when he was elected judge of the 32d judicial district and again in 1912 when he received 21,000 majority under the Oregon plan, over his progressive Republican opponent. The theme of the Senator's Sunday morning address will be "Prohibition in Kansas." Special music is being prepared by the new double quartet choir and the annual Thanksgiving offering will be received.

VENISON 'EATS' FOR DRAFT ARMY

LIVINGSTON, Montana.—National army men in the cantonments of the western coast may be served with venison now and then, if a resolution passed recently by the local chamber of commerce is heeded by department of the interior officials, to whom it was sent.

The chamber urged the slaughter of several thousand of the 40,000 elk now in Yellowstone national park and the shipment of the carcasses to the western cantonments. Not only would the food problem be relieved some-

SLACKERS MUST QUIT LOAFING

LIVINGSTON, Montana.—Declaring that when the farmers can't hire men to dig potatoes and dozen of able-bodied "loafers sit and play cards all day, it is time some action was taken, Sheriff A. S. Robertson has ordered all card tables removed from saloons, clubs and pool halls in this county. He said he did it as a "war measure."

what, it was suggested, but the thousands of the elk would be prevented from starving to death, as it is declared they do each winter.
